

Don't miss your free place at the science event of the year!

Professor Terrence Sejnowski

An international pioneer in computational neuroscience and one of the world's leading brain experts.

Come to this free public talk and learn about the workings of the brain, the behaviour of the brain in disorders such as autism and schizophrenia and what the future has in store for us.

"The Computational Brain" Graeme Clark Oration 2011

Melbourne Convention Centre – Plenary 2
1 Convention Centre Place, South Wharf
Wednesday 9 March 2011
5.30pm for 6.15pm start, concluding 7.15pm

Registration is essential as places are limited – www.graemeclarkoration.org.au

An initiative of

"I think he's one of the really remarkable scientists around at the moment."

Jack Cowan, University of Chicago

"He is a real force for good in neuroscience." Rodney Douglas, University of Zurich